

Becoming a Game Changer!

Train up a child in the way he should go; even when he is old he will not depart from it. Proverbs 22:6

January Focus: WISDOM

The new year is upon us! With the turning of the calendar to 2019, many of us also try our hand at turning a new leaf and often that comes in the form of New Year's Resolutions. The types of possible resolutions are nearly endless - health/fitness, acquiring a new hobby, more date nights with our spouse, being more intentional in our devotion life, saving money, or putting down our cell phones more often and focussing on the life being lived around us. I'm one of those people who loves New Years - I love the optimism and hope that comes with a whole new year; almost anything can happen and that's so exciting to me! In all honesty, I am also someone who can become almost obsessive with accomplishing goals that I have set out. I like to believe that this is one of the reasons God has called me to be a teacher; goals and teaching seem to go hand in hand. In 2019, I have set some small goals for myself (and, admittedly, called it something corny like '20 before 2020') but this year I am trying something a little different. Instead of fixating on everything that I need to accomplish, I am going to focus on the opportunities that God is giving me this year. Instead of legalistically checking off 'to do' lists and revamping floundering goals, I'm going to ask God for the wisdom to know when enough is enough and move on to the next gift that He has instore for me. This year, I desire to be a student - a disciple - of a wise and gracious God.
